President's Message:

Dear Members and Lovers of Scottish Terriers,

Our 2019 Specialty was wonderful. First we had the opportunity to attend a Nose Work Seminar hosted by Scottish Terrier Club of Michigan with our instructor Barbara Gibson. The dogs and owners had a great time. I myself was very impressed with how my dog Bella seemed to really like it. If you missed this, please check this out on line, or check with your local kennel club or training school.

Jan Craig did a wonderful job judging our puppy match. What a beautiful group of puppies she had. Thank you Jan! Saturday started out with Sonya Neve judging our sweepstakes and Kari Hill doing regular classes. Nice to have three breeder judges evaluate our wonderful Scotties. Thank you all very much.

Big thank you to all the members who worked so hard to make this year great. To our guests and members who bought raffle tickets this year, thank you for your support. It takes all of us to keep this specialty independent.

Susan Callender is working to put together a bladder cancer screening at our specialty in 2020, please contact Susan if you are interested at larkspurhill@gmail.com

Lets get involved, please o contact the board with ideas or better yet volunteer!

Sincerely,

Regina Hess

STCM Health Trust

Dear S.T.C.M. Members and friends:

The Scottish Terrier Club of America is offering a $2000.00 grant to three regional clubs to help in the battle to end bladder cancer in our breed. Early detection is the name of the game.

The Scottish Terrier Club of Michigan wants to be one of the three clubs. We are proposing a screening in the fall of 2020, possibly in conjunction with our specialty. There will be much more information coming out to you in the year ahead.

If you own a Scottie 6 years or older, plan on coming to this event. If you have any questions you may email me at larkspurhill@gmail.com.

Thank-you, and here is to good health to you and your dogs.

Susan Callender

Are Poinsettias Poisonous to Dogs?

Dr. Jerry Klein, CVO America, Kennel Club

QUESTION:

My two-year-old Scottie is a very curious pup and still gets into things and chews on occasion. For the past two years, as a safety precaution, I kept holiday decorating to a minimum. I did not have poinsettias, lights, or candles – in fact, I hardly decorated at all aside from a tabletop tree. This year I would really like to decorate and feel more relaxed about doing so without worrying that my dog will ingest or destroy my holiday decorations. I especially love live Poinsettias, but I'm concerned about my dog getting into it. Are these plants highly toxic to dogs? While I can try to keep her away from the actual plant, I'm a bit worried about the leaves dropping and her getting into them. Any pointers you can provide to help me keep my dog safe this Holiday season would be excellent.

ANSWER:

It sounds like you are taking a responsible-dog-owner approach to your Christmas decorating. Pet owners need to be aware of hazards posed to their dogs from the puppy years all throughout their lives. From ingestion dangers to electric shock, many customary Christmas decorations can be hazardous to dogs and cats.

Poinsettias are a mildly toxic plant and should certainly be used with caution, but the dangers are hardly ever serious or fatal. The milky white sap found in poinsettias contains chemicals similar to those in detergents and when large quantities are ingested, mild signs of vomiting, drooling, or sometimes diarrhea may be seen. Skin irritation can occur when in contact with the milky white sap as well. Due to the low level of toxicity seen with poinsettia ingestion, you are safe to use them in your house with caution. All reasonable precautions should be made such as keeping plants and decorations out of your dog's reach and never leaving your dog unattended when decorations, plants and potentially hazardous foods are present.

While medical treatment is rarely necessary when a dog ingests a leaf from a poinsettia plant, you should contact your veterinarian if clinical signs appear in your dog. Below is a more detailed list of common Christmas plants that are dangerous to dogs.

And a helpful video on ways to keep your dog safe this Christmas

- Calla lily
- Amaryllis
- Lily of the Valley
